

Activities

Fiordland describes a vast area that includes some of New Zealand's best known scenic icons: Milford Sound, Mitre Peak, Doubtful Sound, and world famous walking.

A range of premier visitor activities: kayak, cruise and sightseeing opportunities and guided excursions provide access to the stunning landscapes.

A broad range of activities provides experiences to suit everyone, be it relaxed solitude in a fiord or mountain environment, farm tours and a slice of New Zealand rural life. Horse treks, 4WD farm bikes and a huge number of walking options allow visitors to explore mixed terrain and outstanding vistas of the lake, farmland and mountains. A visit to the underwater observatory or a guided dive tour allows access to sights rarely revealed. Boat trips explore the beautiful waters of the fiords, lakes and rivers.

Fiordland is a dramatic and beautiful part of New Zealand. It is an important stop on any itinerary and the experiences on offer make any short break memorable in a truly magnificent area of New Zealand.

Rainy Day Activities

Fiordland is well known for its rainy climate so there's no use denying it. We recommend coming to the region prepared with appropriate clothing and an attitude to enable you to enjoy the sights, sounds and experiences no matter what the weather. Many of the valley and lakeside walkways, and cruise options come alive with waterfalls in a good downpour.

- having appropriate warm clothing is essential to ensure you enjoy your experience. If you forget to pack your raincoat you can hire wet weather clothing for a very reasonable rate from Outside Sports or Bev's Tramping Gear
- view spectacular waterfalls
- visit the Fiordland Cinema to view Ata Whenua or catch a movie
- view Department of Conservation displays and audio visual
- the Te Anau Glowworm Caves are a great activity wet or fine
- race car simulators and a shooting gallery provide affordable family entertainment in the town centre
- spend time relaxing in one of the many cafes or restaurants in Te Anau
- explore local shops for great New Zealand made products and the perfect souvenir of your journey
